'Interrupting' drug networks. London police, RCMP charge dozens with trafficking and weapons offences

ANGELA MULLINS

Police have seized more than 2,460 grams of drugs and charged 37 people after a nine-month investigation.

London police and local RCMP announced the results on Tuesday, hours after the last of 14 search warrants were served. Officers started raiding targets in May, said Brent Shea, deputy police chief. Tuesday's raids started at 4:30 a.m. and focused on six addresses, half of which are in northeast London between Fanshawe Park and Sunningdale roads.

Cocaine accounted for 1,730 grams of the drugs seized, Shea said. "This will have a significant impact on the trade of cocaine within our city," he said, adding that cocaine is the second-most-prevalent drug in the city.

Marijuana is the most widespread, with 90 grams found in what officers dubbed Project O-Bunker. Police also seized hashish and 454 oxycodone pills.

Along with drugs, searches turned up $72,608 in cash, three handguns, a sawed-off shotgun, 53 rounds of ammunition, a .25-calibre bullet, a butterfly knife and a bulletproof vest. Five vehicles were also seized.

Shea did not say how the drugs are coming into London or if the people facing a combined 129 charges are connected.

But, he said, the arrests will "interrupt" drug networks.

The people charged range in age from 17 to 50, and all but three are from London. Two of the accused are from Brampton and one is from Brantford.

Busted

- The value of the drugs seized was $202,282.
- One of the people arrested — Bewar Abdullah, 27 — had been on the London force's most-wanted list for two years.

Ex-CEO's defence 'nonsense': Minister

Ornge. Deb Matthews challenges Mazza's version of events; opposition members call for heads to roll

Ousted Ornge CEO Chris Mazza said he would have changed course at Ontario's troubled air ambulance service if the government asked him to, but that's pure fiction, Health Minister Deb Matthews charged Tuesday.

Mazza testified earlier that had he been asked to make any changes of any kind at any time, his answer would have been, "Yes, ma'am."

That's "pure nonsense," Matthews told a legislative committee.

Mazza's defence for the scandal that's engulfed Ornge doesn't hold water, she said. The former CEO refused to disclose his "outrageous" $1.4-million compensation package even though other senior managers voluntarily complied, she said.

He stonewalled the auditor general and "manipulated" patient transfer numbers in reports to her ministry, Matthews said.

Mazza also avoided two opportunities to meet with her, Matthews said, then he told the committee that she wouldn't meet with him.

"I think we can agree, that was not a 'Yes, ma'am,' but it was a message received loud and clear, and it led directly down a path that ended with the complete overhaul of leadership at Ornge," she said.

"I operate under no illusion that had Chris Mazza met with me, that he would have been forthcoming about his actions."

The minister had testified in March that she was unable to rein in the publicly funded organization sooner and was unaware of numerous red flags about a web of for-profit companies Ornge had set up to generate revenue.

Ornge, which receives about $150 million a year from the province, is under a criminal probe for financial irregularities. It's been under fire for months over a litany of issues, from exorbitant salaries and questionable business deals to staffing shortages and poorly designed medical interiors in its brand-new helicopters.

The opposition parties have questioned Matthews' account, saying there were too many signs for the health ministry to be unaware of what was brewing at Ornge. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Committee details

- The committee will hear from a number of other witnesses over the next two days, then break for the summer.
- Tory Frank Klees said he's added Premier Dalton McGuinty to the witness list, but the committee won't be able to meet again until the fall.
- Opposition parties said they wanted to recall Mazza, but his doctors sent a letter saying he is medically unfit to testify.

Massive Indian power failure spreads to over half the country

Demand soaring.
Worry spreads that outdated infrastructure is unable to meet the growing demand

India's energy crisis cascaded over half the country Tuesday when three of its regional grids collapsed, leaving more than 600 million people without government-supplied electricity in one of the world's biggest-ever blackouts.

Hundreds of trains stalled across the country and traffic lights went out, causing widespread traffic jams in New Delhi. Electric crematoria stopped operating, some with bodies half burnt, power officials said.

The massive failure — a day after a similar, but smaller power failure — has raised serious concerns about India's outdated infrastructure and the government's inability to meet its huge appetite for energy as the country aspires to become a regional economic superpower.

Power Minister Sushil Kumar Shinde blamed the new collapse on states taking more than their allotted share of electricity.

"Everyone overdraws from the grid. Just this morning I held a meeting with power officials from the states and I gave directions that states that overdraw should be punished. We have given instructions that their power supply could be cut," he told reporters.

The new power failure affected people across more than a dozen states — more than the entire population of the European Union. The blackout was unusual in its reach, although its impact was softened by Indians' familiarity with frequent blackouts and the widespread availability of backup generators for major businesses.

Shinde said officials were working to get power restored as quickly as possible.

The outages came just a day after India's northern power grid collapsed for several hours.

Indian officials managed to restore power several hours later, but at 1:05 p.m. Tuesday the northern grid collapsed again, said Shailendre Dubey, an official at the Uttar Pradesh Power Corp. in India's largest state.

About the same time, the eastern grid failed and then the northeastern grid followed, energy officials in those regions said. The grids serve more than half India's population.

In West Bengal, express trains and local electric trains were stopped at stations across the state of West Bengal on the eastern grid. Crowds of people thronged the stations, waiting for any transport to take them to their destinations. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Feds act to provide drought relief for Ontario farmers

Drought conditions have prompted the provincial government to seek sped-up relief for Ottawa farmers. ROBERT RAY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Excessively dry conditions in Ontario this summer have prompted Ottawa to speed up a process that provides relief for livestock producers.

Ontario's minister of agriculture, food and rural affairs asked the federal government Tuesday to allow affected farmers to apply sooner for tax breaks that lessen the sting of a bone-dry season.

Assessments for a designation declaring farms part of prescribed drought regions normally happen in September, but federal Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz said he would "absolutely" be giving them relief.

"We'll take up the administration now and do the assessment," he said, speaking after an event in Saskatoon. "There's a 45-day window for that to happen, and that has begun."

Once an area is designated as a drought region, that will allow farmers to defer a portion of various sales to a future tax year.

Ted McMeekin, Ontario's minister of agriculture, food and rural affairs, visited the Renfrew region Tuesday and said the hot, dry conditions are having an adverse effect on crops, especially in eastern Ontario.

"In certain areas, it's a bit clearer to us that we'll need potentially a special response," he said in an interview.

Short of bringing in a troupe of "rain dancers," McMeekin said, nothing can be done to combat drought aside from operating business risk management programs, which the province is already doing.

Farmers in Western Canada, however, haven't been as hard hit as their eastern counterparts — and as a result, they're reaping the rewards of higher grain prices.

Patent trial. Apple attorney claims Samsung copied iPhone technology

An attorney for Apple told a jury Tuesday that bitter rival Samsung faced two options to compete in the booming cellphone market after Steve Jobs introduced the iPhone to critical acclaim in 2007: Innovate or copy.

Samsung chose to copy, making its smartphones and computer tablets illegal knockoffs of Apple's popular products, attorney Harold McElhinny claimed.

Samsung "has copied the entire design and user experience" of Apple's iPhone and iPad, McElhinny told a jury during his opening statement at the patent trial involving the world's two largest makers of cellphones.

In his opening statement, Samsung attorney Charles Verhoeven countered that the South Korean company employs thousands of designers and spends billions of dollars on research and development to create new products.

"Samsung is not some copyist, some Johnny-come-lately doing knockoffs," he said.

Verhoeven asserted that Apple is like many other companies that use similar technology and designs to satisfy consumer demands for phones and other high-tech devices.

For example, he said several other companies and inventors have filed patent applications for the rounded, rectangular shape associated with Apple products. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tech tussle

- A verdict in Apple's favour could send a message to consumers that Android-based products such as Samsung's are in legal jeopardy.
- A verdict in Samsung's favour, especially if it prevails on its demands that Apple pay its asking price for certain transmission technology, could lead to higher-priced Apple products.

Planned budget carrier worries pilots

Air Canada pilots are concerned that the airline's launch of a low-cost carrier could threaten their job security and working conditions, the union said Tuesday as the plans came closer to fruition after an arbitrator sided with the airline in a labour dispute.

A federal arbitrator chose Air Canada's final offer Monday, imposing a five-year collective agreement that includes, among other things, provisions allowing the airline to create a budget carrier.

The airline says the agreement, effective until April 2016, will give it the flexibility it needs to compete with budget carrier WestJet, which operates mostly domestic flights and doesn't have Air Canada's issues with union and pension woes.

Air Canada's top executives have said the launch of a discount carrier is a top priority, but details on plans are sparse.

Although Air Canada's offer indicates the low-cost carrier will employ workers from the Air Canada Pilots Association, the union's president says it will be "under drastically different terms of employment." THE CANADIAN PRESS

FOR THOSE OF US WHO MISSED THIS IN KINDERGARTEN

JUST SAYIN'
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca/justsaying

I don't know if I learned everything I needed to know in kindergarten, but there was lots of useful stuff, like waiting until the bathroom break to go pee.

Other stuff I'm still not sure about, like "some think it's candy but it's not," and "cheaters never prosper."

The first one we'll save for another column, but the cheaters line always causes me to go hmm. If that's true, why do so many people cheat?

Never mind the consequences, what's the value of the experience?

This is the question that must be going through the minds of the various cheaters who weren't paying attention in kindergarten. Almost everyone cheats, even though it's a hollow experience. Apparently, it beats the hollow experience of authentic existence. Maybe you have to go to graduate school to learn that one. Existentialism 101.

Kristen Stewart, Little Miss Cheatie. GETTY

Yet, they still do it. Although anti-doping officials plan to run 6,250 doping tests at the current Summer Olympics, at least nine athletes (so far) thought they could beat the odds and have been caught and sent home, the latest being the proverbial Albanian weightlifter. Don't they have kindergarten in Albania?

Jonah Lehrer, El Cheato. HANDOUT

Then there's that cheating vampire Kristen Stewart, who thought she could bite the wrong neck despite the fact that she's routinely surveilled by more cameras than a London subway platform.

Or how about Jonah Lehrer, the bright young journalist who resigned from the New Yorker this week after he got caught making up Bob Dylan quotes. "Who's Jonah Lehrer?" tweeted Dylan, who should talk. He stole Ramblin' Jack Eliot's voice. But then Ramblin' Jack was something of a cheat as well. He came across all Ramblin' Jack, folksy and wild-western, when in fact his real name was Elliot Charles Adnopoz and he grew up in Brooklyn.

Kip Litton, the marathon cheater. COURTESY MLIVE

Did Ramblin' Jack or Bobby ever stand up and say they cheated, that they weren't really itinerant troubadours who learned their art and wisdom on the highway? Uh, no. But making up quotes from an influential singer-songwriter, that's cheating. And if you weren't so busy nose-mining in kindergarten, you would know that.

The Father of All Cheats, a dentist named Kip Litton from Michigan, made up an entire marathon and placed himself first in it. Rosie Ruiz, the famed Boston Marathon cheat, had nothing on this guy. As well as the bogus West Wyoming marathon, Kip has cheated his way into Boston, and despite an exposé in this week's New Yorker (irony alert!) he's still going!

Cheaters never prosper. They also never give up. Didn't learn that in kindergarten, so it must be genetic.

Labyrinth of books makes for twisted tunnel

If you are a lover of the written word, you'll be amazed by this labyrinth.

Brazilian artists Marcos Saboya and Gualter Pupo used 250,000 books to create it.

The installation at Britain's Southbank Centre is a part of the London 2012 Festival, a three-month-long cultural event held concurrently with the Olympics.

Book worm

- Inspired by a literary great. Brazilian artist Gualter Pupo said the installation's design is based on the fingerprint of Jorge Luis Borges, one of Latin America's greatest writers. "He was almost a library himself," Pupo joked.
- Maze's meaning. Is it a maze or a bibliophile's dream? Pupo said the idea behind this interactive installation is to gaze at the covers and read the books, all to rekindle the power of literature first experienced in childhood. "People have to look at literature and remember how it builds our character and personality," he said. About the concept of a maze, the artist profoundly added: "You need to get lost in order to find your right way."
- Book sources. Pupo said that about half of the books were donated by British charity group Oxfam, with the rest provided by numerous book publishers. Pupo, director of non-profit production company Hungry Man, said all the books will be donated back to charity after the exhibition ends on Aug. 26.

Metro World News

Dr. Horrible's Sing-Along Blog, Joss Whedon's three-part musical starring Neil Patrick Harris, Nathan Fillion and Felicia Day, officially makes its television debut on Oct. 9 at 9 p.m. on The CW, the network announced at the Television Critics Association press tour in Beverly Hills, Calif., this week.

The Internet hit, about a budding super villain (Harris), was created during the Writers Guild of America strike and first ran online in 2008. Mark Pedowitz, President of The CW, admitted he's a big fan of the musical, and said he proactively touched base with Whedon to get Dr. Horrible on The CW.

"I made the phone call. I said, 'would you like it on television?" Pedowitz told journalists. Pedowitz explained that the series will be re-edited for time constraints, so what viewers will see is "basically what's been online."

As for additional Dr. Horrible stories, Pedowitz is eager to bring any potential new episodes to The CW.

"Hopefully if Joss does another one, we'll get a crack at it," he said.

In other cult hit news, Pedowitz said the network would "love to do" a series based on the bloody, futuristic thriller Battle Royale, a Japanese film released in 2000 with a very Hunger Games-like plot: The government forces high-schoolers to fight to the death.

Though Pedowitz says he is a "big believer" in the show, particularly because of the movie's cult following and its dystopian plot, right now he says an adaptation is "at this point in time only in development.

"Not even in development. Only a phone call."

Regarding fantasy/sci-fi series that are returning to The CW, Pedowitz said the new season of The Vampire Diaries will (spoiler alert!) explore Elena's transition into a vampire.

"Does she follow Stefan's path or Damon's path?"

Considering the series' high body count, Pedowitz confirmed there will be new faces on Season 4.

"There are always new characters," he said. "And those who are dead can return."

Also at press tour, The CW announced that the winner of The Next, a singing competition that travels the nation searching for new talent, will be awarded a contract with Atlantic Records. Premiering Aug. 16 at 9 p.m., the series features mentors Nelly, Gloria Estefan, Joe Jonas and John Rich finding local talent, then bringing the singers to Los Angeles, where they will vie for viewers' votes during live performances.

Kate can totally recall these questions

New movie. Kate Beckinsale laments being asked the same questions over and over again at junkets

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Kate Beckinsale has quite a ferocious presence in the new update on Total Recall, playing a government operative on the hunt for Colin Farrell's rogue agent with memory issues after working undercover as his doting wife. The trick to tapping into such a baddie, she reveals, is to play it like a hero.

Though you play the villain, you've mentioned that your character thinks she's the hero.

The thing is, if you're playing somebody who is mentally ill, you can't play mentally ill. If you play somebody as a villain, you end up twirling your mustache and that kind of thing. I do think people who do things that other people consider bad are feeling like they're doing the right thing. And I think she's also quite distracted by her own sort of emotional situation, which is that she's so highly trained and highly talented, and yet she's given this detail that's actually quite degrading, where you're that highly trained and you're basically pretending to be somebody's wife.

Kate Beckinsale stars in the remake of Total Recall. HANDOUT

I've noticed when doing press for your movies, you get a lot of the same questions, particularly about your age.

Were you there when (a reporter) asked me if I fantasize about playing Maggie Smith's parts? That was quite a stunning one. Is she not 87? I came back to my room and said, 'I wonder if Colin was asked does he fantasize about playing Mickey Rooney's parts?' Does that happen? Probably not. I must say, I do find that that's an obsession that seems to be quite rampant in the press, and it doesn't come up in my actual life so much. And then I get quite shocked when I come to press junkets and people are obsessed with it. It's almost like, 'How are you still going around with that wooden leg and the colostomy bag and the false teeth? How's it going?' It just seems so completely mad to me.

It's the other side of being an actress, really — taking these questions over and over, handling them with grace and humour. How do you do that?

I don't know if I think I'm necessarily very good at it because I feel like I'm far too honest most of the time. I keep hearing about these sort of seminars that other actors have done to figure out how to deal with it, and I was never offered it, told about it — it's too late now, anyway. I do think that my instinct is to be open and treat it as if I am genuinely having a conversation.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

What's his name? Snoop Lion

THE WORD
Monica Weymouth
scene@metronews.ca

We expected that Snoop Dogg would change his name again at some point. The rapper — who was born Calvin Cordozar Broadus, Jr., christened himself Snoop Doggy Dogg, then dropped the Doggy — was at least one reincarnation behind Diddy.

What we didn't expect was that we'd be calling him Snoop Lion. The new name comes after a trip to Jamaica, where he visited with Rastafarian priests.

"I want to bury Snoop Dogg, and become Snoop Lion," Snoop revealed at a news conference in New York. "I didn't know that until I went to the temple, where the High Priest asked me what my name was, and I said, 'Snoop Dogg.' And he looked me in my eyes and said, 'No more. You are the light; you are the lion.' From that moment on, it's like I had started to understand why I was there."

Since when did Snoop start to sound like your too-touchy yoga teacher? That's a question for another day. For today, we ask you this: What is Justin Bieber's spirit animal?

Lindsay Lohan
Spirit animal: Capuchin monkey.
Because no other animal is known to both chain smoke and steal.

Justin Bieber
Spirit animal: Chipmunk.
The high voice, the admirable scrappiness, the built-in racing stripes: Chipmunk DNA is one diamond earring removed from Bieber's building blocks.

Taylor Swift
Spirit animal: Gazelle.
So graceful, so delicate, so innocent. And yet, we'd be really afraid to fall in her pen.

Tom Cruise
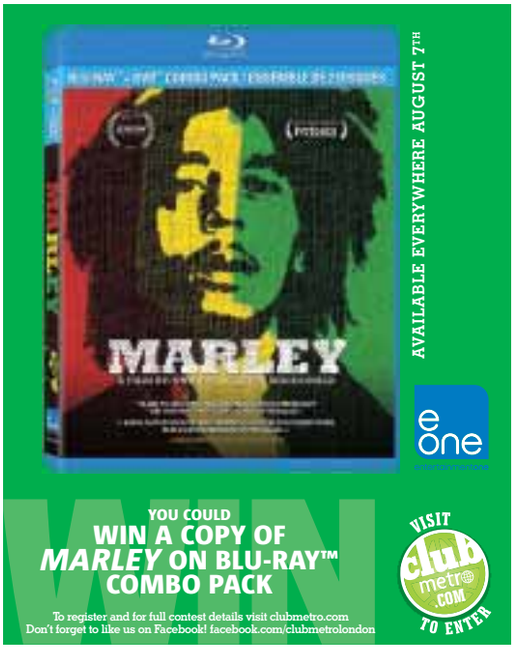
Spirit animal: Cockatoo.
Perfectly coiffed and dead behind the eyes, both of these unnerving creatures have learned to speak gibberish while mimicking humans.



Katie Holmes

Holmes doing 'really great' since divorce, source says

It's been a month since Katie Holmes filed for divorce from Tom Cruise, and apparently the lifestyle change is working out for her.

"She's doing really great. She's so strong, she's an independent girl with her own ideas. She is fine," a source close to Holmes tells Us Weekly.

Holmes has also reportedly been spending more time with 6-year-old daughter Suri.

"She wants to really become a parent and start teaching her strong discipline," another source says, explaining that Holmes realized the young girl had become "very demanding and bratty."

Lindsay Lohan

Entire crew to strip for Lohan topless scene

Lindsay Lohan will apparently go topless on camera, but there are some interesting conditions.

According to TMZ, before stripping down for a steamy sex scene in her latest project, the Canyons, Lohan insisted the crew do the same, leading to the scene being filmed by about 10 men in their underwear.

Wearing even less, though, was Lohan's co-star, adult film actor James Deen, who likely didn't take much issue with removing his clothes.

Summer is the peak time for Canadian families to go on vacation, but let's face it; the cost of hotels, food and fun can blow your budget. With only a handful of weeks left before the kids go back to school, here's five suggestions for cheap day getaways in Canada.

Raft down Calgary's Bow River

Estimated cost: $10 to $55 for four to six people

This activity is free if you already own or can borrow a raft but the cost to rent a six-person floater is $55. Bring some drinks and snacks and you're laughing. Don't forget sunscreen and life-jackets.

Soak up the sun on Grand Beach, Manitoba

Estimated cost: $10-$50 for a family of four

Nestled on the eastern shore of Lake Winnipeg, Grand Beach features three kilometres of beautiful white sand. Located within a provincial park, there's a lot of affordable activities to do including hiking, bird watching and camping. Pack a picnic lunch and enjoy it while relaxing on a beach blanket.

Take a deep breath on Toronto's islands

Estimated cost: $21-$200 for a family of four, includes ferry and cost of amusement park

Quiet, tranquility and arguably the city's best skyline view can be found on Toronto's islands. Centreville Amusement Park is a popular destination for families because of its 30 rides and attractions. Save $5 by buying an all-day park pass for four online.

Paint a picture in Peggys Cove, Nova Scotia

Estimated cost: Free to $30 for art supplies

Tired old apple tart made over with the sticky stuff

Apple Flan With Honey Au Jus

This recipe makes one tart. THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

Ingredients

- 300 ml (1 1/4 cups) all-purpose flour
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) cold un salted butter, cut into 1-cm (1/2-inch) cubes
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) salt
- 30 to 60 ml (2 to 4 tbsp) ice water
- 6 Northern Spy apples

Apple Au Jus

- 250 ml (1 cup) water

Topping

- 45 ml (3 tbsp) honey
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) cold butter, sliced

1. In a food processor, pulse together flour, butter and salt until most of the mixture resembles coarse meal or peas. Add 30 ml (2 tbsp) of the ice water and pulse 2 or 3 times or just until incorporated. Add more water if necessary. Turn dough onto a floured work surface and form into a ball, wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate for at least 20 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, wash apples well and pat dry; core and peel, reserving apple peelings. Halve apples and slice 3 mm (1/8 inch) thick

3. Apple Au Jus: Place apple peelings in a medium pot and add honey and water. Bring to a boil and cook for about 15 minutes. Strain and set aside. It will be a lovely pink colour.

4. On lightly floured surface, roll out dough into a 33-cm (13-inch) round and fit it into a 25-cm (10-inch) flan pan with a removable bottom and fluted rim, trimming the excess.

5. Brush bottom of shell with apple liquid and arrange apples decoratively on pastry shell, overlapping slices.

6. Topping: Drizzle honey on top of the apples, top with butter and bake in the middle of a 190 C (375 F) oven for 45 minutes or until crust is cooked through and apples are golden.

7. To serve, puddle apple au jus on a serving dish and lay a slice of warm apple tart over top.

Hand over that job

Shine with a shake.
Prepare your palms for any meet-and-greet

ELIAS DA SILVA-POWELL
TalentEgg.ca

Starting your first entry-level or early career job will likely involve a small but significant action: the handshake.

Between networking, conferences, interviews and social events, you'll do a lot of handshaking in your life. U.S. president Theodore Roosevelt once shook more than 8,000 hands in a single day.

While you probably won't go quite that far, it's important to make sure you've got the basics in hand.

When your hands need a hand

Take a minute and really look at your hands.

Hands – the body's most versatile tool – often get neglected because they're in the middle of everything.

You may be advertising your hobbies without knowing it, in the form of paint, dirt or rough, calloused skin.

High-pressure situations can also create problems, as some people are prone to sweating when nervous. At the other end of the spectrum, cold weather can result in dry, cracked skin, which is not only painful, but unpleasant to look at.

Don't forget about your fingernails. Short, worried-looking nails suggest nail-biting (which a prospective employer may interpret as a lack of discipline), while unattended talons present a real risk of injury.

Perfect your pleasant palms

A soak in warm soapy water followed by a scrub with a nail brush will resolve most problems with dirt and grime. Wear gloves when working with your hands. Some retail stores carry a liquid solution which helps keep your hands stain-free.

Manage sweaty palms with over-the-counter products which will help your hands stay cool and dry. (At networking functions, be sure to hold your drink in your left hand.)

If you're prone to dry skin, find a non-greasy moisturizer that keeps your skin supple.

As a bare minimum, ensure your nails are trimmed and tidy.

This sort of care and attention helps avoid unpleasant surprises for someone joining you in a hand-clasp – surprises which might turn the friendliest individual off.

Get a grip!

Handshake technique

- Employ a one-handed shake. Throwing both hands into the mix is overly intimate.
- Make sure your fingers are together and that your palm connects with the other person's palm squarely.
- Don't shake anyone's hand without standing up. Ever. If you can't be bothered to stand, you don't need to shake hands.
- With that in mind, don't refuse to shake someone's hand when they're sitting.

Don't be shook by the shake

Everyone dreams of the perfect "deal closer" handshake — the handshake that tells others, "I'm reliable, serious and here to get things done."

While you might think this means an iron grip and a wide smile, handshake protocol varies widely around the world. Different cultures have different conventions relating to bodily contact, handshake pressure and duration, eye contact, and when to shake hands.

Networking know-how.
An etiquette lesson in making connections

How do you make connections and find a job? It's not just what you know. It's who you know.

Networking is the process of making contact and exchanging information with other people. It involves building relationships and creating a personal set of contacts that may be able to help you in some way.

Networking is attentively and consciously meeting people, being interested in them, remembering who they are and what they do, and exchanging information with them over time. Networking can be used in many ways in your job search and throughout your career. No matter who you contact, etiquette is important in building and maintaining relationships.

- Be well prepared. Be able to articulate as much as you know about what you are looking for in your career, job search, etc.
- Always be professional, courteous, and considerate.
- Be interested in the people you meet. Most people enjoy the chance to tell you about their own careers and activities.
- Be genuine. Possess a sincere desire to learn. Be honest in asking for advice. If you are only interested in asking for a job, it will show, no matter how you disguise it.
- Be gracious. Write a thank you letter when people take time to meet with you.
- Stay in touch. Update people in your network when you make significant progress in your research or job search.
- Give back. Know enough about the people you meet to keep their needs in mind as you continue to network. You may be able to pass on ideas, articles, and contacts that will interest them.
- Use good judgment about the amount of time you request when you contact people. Do not overstay your welcome, and do not "return to the well" too many times.

My degrees are my experience, so hire me already!

Adelle Farrelly,
Graduate, Bachelor of Arts in English Literature McGill University, Graduate Master of Arts in Medieval Studies University of Toronto
TalentEgg.ca

I always knew in the back of my mind that an academic career was a slim possibility, but I foolishly thought that the skills I would gain from a bachelor's degree, never mind a master's, would give me the flexibility and work ethic that would make me attractive to potential employers.

I was set on applying to PhD programs when the combination of a death in the family and financial struggles gave me pause — that could wait, I thought, until I had worked for a few years in the real world, paid off my student loans, and established what great question I would like to tackle. More grad school is still a possibility down the line, but that dream of real-world work experience is fading fast.

In some ways I have done everything wrong: two arts degrees, student loans, no real internships to speak of, no connections, no networking, just retail experience and a knack for Latin. Even with a reduced course load, I never had the time others seemed to have for unpaid internships and student groups as I was busy working a retail job.

I was one of the first people in my family to go to university and I had no relatives or family friends able to give me advice or connections. I don't want to make too many excuses, because there are people who start with far less and go much further, but those were the risks and limitations I perceived.

By all conventional wisdom, a degree should mean something. Yet when I finished my MA I found myself working at a certain well-known coffee chain surrounded by fellow students and recent graduates, all of us looking for that "real job" and confused about our fate.

One truly great thing came out of this experience: I realized that what I want to do, what I really want to do, is write.

Where I am now
So, what am I doing now to improve my situation? Reading. Writing. Applying for everything in sight, whether I'm "qualified" or not. Networking socially. Blogging. Translating Latin in my spare time. Quite frankly, writing this. All I need, I keep saying, is just one opportunity with someone willing to show me the ropes.

My recommendations for students
Students! You, there, who wants to be a professor! I am proud of you and know you know your stuff, but remember: if for whatever reason that path doesn't work out, don't assume that you can just "get a job in publishing or something." If that really is your secondary career choice, start putting at least a little effort into that starting now, or you'll end up in my position.

Which glass to raise?

Setting the bar. When it comes to work events, sip smart

ELIAS DA SILVA-POWELL
TalentEgg.ca

A networking event can put you touch with everyone from hiring managers and recruiters to company heads, all of whom might be a valuable lead for an entry level or early career job.

The drink in your hand can say a lot about you, or even act as a serious barrier to effective networking.

Beer Beer is a safe bet. It's conventional, relaxed and has the right amount of "work-after-work" feeling to it. Also, if you're at an event for several hours, no one will begrudge you having more than one.

Martinis A martini perfectly captures the goal of a networking function: make a very strong impression in a very short time. However, you may find it hard to close a promising conversation when you can't find your business cards…or your wallet…or your shoes, for that matter.

Order your bevvy with extra ice to keep conversations clear. ISTOCK

Mixed drinks
Since these drinks are small in size, it's deceptively easy to wind up with a glass full of ice, which can be distracting, particularly if you find yourself in a crowd with no table in sight. If this is your particular poison, ask for a watered-down drink in a highball glass, not a squat rocks glass. You want to be sure your drink has staying power.

Wine
Wine is the popular go-to drink for networking functions. You'll avoid the bloated feeling that can come with beer, while radiating class and sophistication (sip, don't gulp, junior).

Water
Though many find a drink helps them relax and ease into a casual event, it's important to consider the various merits of water.

Water is not only free at most networking events, it will help you ensure you keep a level head and stay hydrated for the all hand-shaking and card-swapping.

Tip: If you're looking for something a little more lively, try club soda. It's fizzy and fun, and it lacks the sugar content of regular sodas.

You'll never know what small decisions can spark conversations, and which conversations could lead to great job opportunities. Something as small as a shared favourite drink could lead to big things. You can't read minds, but you can avoid some obvious drink don'ts.

Canadian medal roundup. Canuck athletes have captured four bronze medals at London 2012 Olympics

It was a multi-medal day for Canada at the London Olympics.

Antoine Valois-Fortier won a bronze in men's judo less than 30 minutes after the diving team of Roseline Filion and Meaghan Benfeito captured a bronze in the 10-metre synchronized event.

Quoted

"We had to dive our hearts out. We were ready"

Roseline Filion and her diving partner Meaghan Benfeito, captured a bronze in 10-metre synchronized diving event.

About an hour later, weightlifter Christine Girard captured bronze in the women's 63-kilogram class.

Canada now has four total medals after Tuesday's action, all bronze.

Valois-Fortier, a 22-year-old from Quebec City, defeated American Travis Stevens 1-0 in the bronze medal bout of the men's 81-kilogram judo event.

"It feels amazing. I've sacrificed so much and all of the fights today were very hard," Valois-Fortier said. "It was tough mentally but the whole team supported me and I managed to pull myself together. I wanted it really bad, it's what I work for every day."

Filion, from Laval, Que., and Benfeito, from Montreal, finished with a combined score of 337.62 for their diving bronze.

"We said there was nothing more we could have done," Filion said.

China continued to dominate the competition, with Chen Ruolin and Wang Hao winning the gold.

"They can make mistakes," added Benfeito. "We try to say we can win the gold. But they're amazing divers."

Paola Espinosa Sanchez and Alejandra Orozco Loza of Mexico took the silver.

Girard, who grew up in Rouyn-Noranda, Que., and lives in White Rock, B.C., completed the hat trick an hour later to become the first Canadian woman to ever win a weightlifting medal at a Games.

She finished third with a total weight of 236 kilograms.

"It is very hard to describe how I feel," Girard said. "Four years ago in Beijing I came fourth and since then I have spent the past four years training through injuries and various changes in my life to get to this moment."

Maiya Maneza of Kazakhstan won gold, while Svetlana Tsarukaeva of Russia captured silver.

The medals come two days after Emilie Heymans and Jennifer Abel gave Canada its first of the Games with a third-place finish in the women's three-metre synchro.

Swimmer Michael Phelps became the most successful Olympian in history Tuesday with a gold and a silver medal that propelled him to a place in the sporting record books and the U.S. to 4x200 freestyle victory.

Phelps shattered the record for most Olympic medals ever with a frustrating defeat in the 200-metre butterfly that left him with silver, followed by a relay gold.

Phelps lost the 200-metre butterfly to South African Chad le Clos, when, after leading all the way, he tried to glide to the wall after his final stroke, opening the way for le Clos to touch the wall first instead. Japan's Takeshi Matsuda took the bronze.

Career medals

Phelps now has 15 gold, two silver and two bronze medals.

It was an astounding mistake considering he won a memorable race in Beijing when a rival made the very same error. He held his head in his hands as he stood in the pool and appeared upset with himself.

But in his second race of the night, the United States team of Ryan Lochte, Conor Dwyer, Ricky Berens and Phelps on the anchor leg won in six minutes, 59.70 seconds. France took the silver in 7:02.77, while China was third in 7:06.30. It was Phelps' first gold of these Olympics.

With 19 career medals spanning three Olympics, Phelps broke the record of Soviet gymnast Larisa Latynina, who won 18 medals in 1956, 1960 and 1964.

"You are now a complete legend," the public address announcer bellowed, accompanied by the Foo Fighters' song Best of You.

Canadian hopes 'slip away' at Wimbledon

Canadian tennis star Milos Raonic's Games came to a heartbreaking end after losing a marathon match 6-3, 3-6, 25-23 to fifth-ranked Frenchman Jo-Wilfried Tsonga on Tuesday.

The hard-serving 21-year-old from Thornhill, Ont., saw his serve broken while trailing 24-23 in the third set.

"I felt like I played really well for most of the match and I just let it slip away from me at the end," Raonic said.

The official match time was three hours 57 minutes. The third set alone lasted an even three hours. The 66 games played were the most ever in a three-set Olympic match and the 48-game third set also set a record. It wasn't clear whether any time records were broken.

Aleksandra Wozniak didn't last nearly as long against Venus Williams as the Blainville, Que., native lost out 6-1, 6-1 to the American superstar.

In men's doubles, Toronto's Daniel Nestor and Vancouver's Vasek Pospisil fell in second-round action to the third-seeded Serbian duo of Janko Tipsarevic and Nenad Zimonjic 6-4, 5-7, 11-9.

Alfie not done in Ottawa just yet

Ottawa Senators captain Daniel Alfredsson isn't ready to call it quits just yet.

The 39-year-old forward announced Tuesday he will return to play out the final year of his four-year contract with the NHL club.

Alfredsson said he needed to test himself in rigorous off-season training to see if his body could withstand another NHL campaign before deciding whether to return. The result was positive.

"I've had the motivation of playing from the beginning, but I had to go through the process," the right-winger said on a conference call from Sweden.

All talk and no action for Jays at trade deadline

MLB. Toronto deals outfielders Snider and Thames for hurlers Lincoln and Delabar the night before cutoff

There were no last-minute deals by Alex Anthopoulos at baseball's non-waiver trade deadline.

The Toronto Blue Jays GM said he had plenty of discussions leading up to the 4 p.m. ET deadline Tuesday, but never was really close to finalizing a deal.

"We thought we were moving towards something late last night ... it carried over into the morning and ended up falling apart," Anthopoulos said during a conference call. "That's just the way trade talks go, you have 1,000 conversations to hopefully get one deal done.

Brad Lincoln
GETTY IMAGES

"We had a lot of active dialogue, we had a lot of things going on but I don't know if we were ever that close to getting anything done."

Toronto did make a move prior to the deadline, recalling outfielder Moises Sierra from Triple-A Las Vegas and optioning left-hander Evan Crawford and right-hander Joel Carreno to the Pacific Coast League club.

Anthopoulos made two deals late Monday night, acquiring relievers Brad Lincoln and Steve Delabar. Toronto sent outfielder Travis Snider to Pittsburgh for right-hander Lincoln while outfielder Eric Thames, who was in Las Vegas, went to Seattle for Delabar, another right-hander.

Anthopoulos feels the two trades will not only help Toronto now but also in the future.

"We added two big-league players to our bullpen so I think we've improved our club," he said. "I don't think there's any doubt about that right now." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fuel Saver Technology

To ease the SRT8's 91-octane habit, the 6.4 comes with Fuel Saver Technology that powers down half of the eight cylinders when operating under light or no-load conditions. It doesn't help too much in city driving where consumption is rated at 17.1 l/100 km, but that number drops to 11.4 on the highway.

All SRT8s arrive contented to a reasonably complete degree, with climate control, heated and cooled leather seats for both rows, heated steering wheel and 20-inch wheels fitted with foot-wide Pirelli all-season performance tires.

Hauling anything with the SRT8 should be a breeze, owing to its 6.4-litre Hemi V8 generating 470 horsepower and 465 pound-feet of torque. That's up 50 horses and 45 pound-feet from the previous 6.1-litre SRT8. Jeep says that the 6.4 can propel the 2,340-kilogram Grand Cherokee to 60 m.p.h. (96 km/h) from rest in 4.8 seconds.

Review. Trust Jeep to build yet another vehicle no one else can

MALCOLM GUNN
Wheelbase Media

Acceleration, cornering force on asphalt and stopping distance generally have nothing to do — at all — with the Jeep brand. In fact, the Grand Cherokee SRT8 is about as un-Jeep-y as it gets.

But here it is, a combination that's unique among North American-based sport utility vehicles and a rare achievement for any such model from anywhere at just about any price.

Knobby tires, big ground clearance and exposed door hinges? Nope, but the SRT8 is a Jeep that you just have to love.

The initials refer to Chrysler's Street and Racing Technology division and the Grand Cherokee is one of four such designated models with the others being the Chrysler 300 and Dodge Charger sedans plus the Dodge Challenger SRT8 392. Later this year, the Viper coupe returns as the first SRT-nameplated model (the Dodge handle has been dropped).

You're forgiven if you assumed the ride was over for the Grand Cherokee SRT8 when it passed into history following the 2010 model year.

With its big-power V8 and taut suspension, the Jeep delivered Cheetah-like launches along with snappy passing prowess, regardless of weather or road conditions. However, at a cost of thousands more than a more-off-road-capable base Laredo V6 or Limited V8, that could have easily sealed the SRT8's fate.

Well, apparently there remains enough potential buyers with outrageous transportation leanings to prod Jeep into bringing the SRT8 back on line.

Only this time there's more passenger space, luxury features and power, all wrapped up in a sinfully slick wrapper.

Evolving the road trip, through social media

Autopilot

AUTO PILOT
Mike Goetz
drive@metronews.ca

I don't know about you, but sometimes I feel like the world is going to hell in an Internet-connected hand basket.

Primarily those are the times when I would look around our home and see every member of our family dispersed and tethered to various and different screens. Four separate islands of Facebook, Call of Duty, YouTube, and Sportsnet.

So I was thrilled to get wind of Greg Mountenay and his most excellent road trip adventure.

Greg took an old, glorious form of non-digital social interaction, and one close to my heart, the automobile road trip, and gave it a really cool, new life — by actually leveraging our now-digitized social life.

He decided to drive across the country and connect with as many of his Facebook friends as possible. What a cool idea!

"A lot of people are concerned that social media is going to take over, be the new frontier of conversation," says Greg, over his cell phone connected to a hands-free Bluetooth device, on the road somewhere between Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury, Ont.

"But it means more to me, that I have stayed connected to my friends."

He makes a great point; the continued connection has allowed him to be welcomed with open arms from one end of the country to another, and created the circumstances, as he says, "to put another layer on the friendship."

But how did he come up with the idea?

"It was in that lull after graduation, when you realize you have two degrees and are unemployable ... I was hanging out with one of my friends, saying wouldn't it be great to just walk into a Canadian Tire, grab everything you need for a Canada-wide road trip — GPS, sleeping bag, tent — and head on my way."

Turns out, this friend has a friend at Canadian Tire. Long story short, Greg more or less got this cool, "summer job" at Canadian Tire, driving across the country in his 2003 Suzuki Grand Vitara, connecting face-to-face with friends and family, blogging about his experiences, and trying out various Canadian Tire road trip products, like the Jawbone Bluetooth, Magellan GPS, and Coleman Instant Tent.

After starting from Canadian Tire in Peterborough, Ont., and making it all the way to the West Coast, Greg Mountenay is now moving through Ontario again, en route to his final destination in Halifax. CONTRIBUTED

All along he wanted to tie the trip to Facebook, to visit as many Facebook friends as possible along the way. But it took on an even greater Facebook spin when he started posting his possible itinerary.

"Once friends knew I was going across the country, they said, 'Well you have to stop and see me.'"

The other neat aspect of chronicling the journey over the web, is that friends can track his progress as he makes his way toward them. The "build up" creates even more excitement. He recalls his friend, Jen Feele, getting more excited by the day, as he made his slow way to her home base in Squamish, B.C.

"I get status updates from friends," says Greg.

"I know what's going on in their lives. But I haven't actually seen some of them for years. It was so amazing to be able to connect ... to see what their lives are like and what the country is like, from their perspective."

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Let employers and people in positions of authority know what you can do. Let them know how hard you work and how much value you add to the tasks you undertake. Make sure you get the recognition you deserve.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
A new phase has begun but still you are clinging to the past. The planets indicate that it's time to move on and the sooner you come to terms with that fact, the sooner you will enjoy life again.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Money matters may be high on your priority list at the moment but that does not mean your social life has to take a back seat. The approaching full moon will bring someone new and exotic into your life.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Be generous with others today, even if you have fallen out with them over emotional or material issues that are important to you. There is no point holding grudges — the person it hurts most is you.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
The pace of life is picking up by the hour, if not the minute, and today and tomorrow you will have to react to situations that are not of your choosing. Stay calm and you'll do OK. Nothing can hurt you.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Passions will be running high over the next 24 hours and there may be times when it all gets a bit too much for you. Those are the times when you need to back off and let things cool down a bit.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
If nothing else, the approaching full moon will help you to see things from other people's point of view — and that's a useful talent to have. If you know how they think, you'll also know what to expect.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Something amazing will happen over the next 48 hours and although it may cause you a few moments of alarm, you can sense it's all good really. What is an upheaval for some can be an opportunity for you.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Forget about how much something might cost you and go for it. If it engages your imagination then it must be good. Don't overanalyze what is really a quite simple situation.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Tomorrow's full moon will bring to a head an issue that has been worrying you, but it's what you do today that will determine how much of an impact it has. Be cautious. This is not a time to take risks.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
It's not like you to have second thoughts once your mind is made up about something but that's exactly what is happening. Could it be you have taken a wrong turning along the way? Yes.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You have every right to express your opinion — in fact it's more than a right, it's a duty. The reason powerful people don't like what you say is because they know it's the truth. All the more reason to say it. SALLY BROMPTON
